Announcements

CheerExpo will provide FREE announcements to all exhibitors (maximum 2 per company). Due to the number of teams competing at the event and the tight scheduling required to accommodate them, time is limited and we cannot guarantee the exact time of your announcement(s). Please print neatly on the announcement request form so that our announcer can understand your announcements. Your announcement may be a commercial type announcement promoting a product, event or service, or you may announce any specials or contests at your booth. This is entirely up to you.

You may submit announcements during the show hours by handing them to the Info Booth or to the emcee/announcer.

Guidelines for announcements:

- All announcement requests MUST be written in third person. Do not write "our company", "we", "us", "our", etc. They must be written as "they", "them", "their", or with your company name.
- Your announcement should be written as it will be read by the emcee. Do not write "We're having a contest at 3:30. Please make an announcement about it". Write exactly what you want said.
- Announcement must fit in the allotted space on the sheet
- No bashing! CheerExpo will not announce anything that puts down another company, even if they are not exhibiting at the event. For example: You CAN say "XYZ has the best ABC (prices, service, uniforms, etc) in the world"; but you cannot say "XZY has better (prices, service, uniforms, etc) than EFG".
- Print clearly! If the emcee has to decipher and de-code your announcement, it will probably get tossed.
- All announcements must be suitable for all age groups.
- CheerExpo reserves the right to change, alter, or exclude your announcement for the benefit of the event.

Vendor Schedule

Friday April 4th - Set up day and last day to book booths if space is available. The past few years we have been fully booked by the fall. However, sometimes last-minute situations arise where a booth space becomes available for the event. ASK! Exact times for set up will be sent at least one week prior to the event (generally it is between 4pm and 7pm).

April 5th – 6th: Exact event hours will be announced one week prior to the event; depending on how many teams are registered. It generally runs from about 9am-7pm both days. Exhibitors will be allowed entrance each day at 7:30am to get set up. Doors open to the general public at 8:00am and the competition begins at 9am. It is strongly advisable to be at your booth no later than 8:00am each event day as that is when the general public is permitted entry.

April 6th - between end of event and 8pm: The Expo is over and clean up begins! Anything left on the floor will be discarded. Items to be shipped back must be packaged and clearly labeled with a bill of lading from your shipping company and you must contact the company to pick it up Monday between 9am-4pm. Packages not picked up within 24 hours will be discarded.

8:00pm(ish): The CheerExpo doors in Halifax close and you must be done and gone. Now you can sit back, relax and think about how successful you were at this event!

April 7th: Your packages must be picked up by the end of the work day or they will be discarded. Start thinking about the next CheerExpo and planning your strategies.

April 8th – 12th: Follow up on all of your contacts and mail out any information that was requested.

CheerExpo Logo Usage:

Exhibitors may NOT use the CheerExpo logo or make reference to the event itself (i.e. CheerExpo, CheerExpo Nationals, CheerExpo Grand Championships) on any item, including bows.

Tips for Vendors

Who to Send:

- Your booth should have at least 2 people at all times. It's a busy event. Eventually, your exhibitors may want to have lunch or use the bathroom facilities. You'll want these people to be able to check out the services, products, and prices of other companies as well, having at least 2 people at your booth should allow you to do this.
- Send someone that is familiar with your companies' business dealings and who is capable of making business arrangements. Staff with people who are professional, punctual, responsible, and comfortable dealing with all age groups. We expect this event to be very busy so make sure that your people are able to deal appropriately with stressful situations. Attendees may feel a little apprehensive about approaching booths that do not have products for sale. Send people that are enthusiastic and welcoming. Don't expect people to just come over and see what you have to offer, you may have to invite them over.
- DON'T send "whoever is available". The exhibitors should be excited about promoting the company. These people are representing you!
- Don't expect your handouts to provide all of the information. Handouts should be used as a reference after the event. Coaches will not read a 3-page information package if they have no idea what it is about. Give them some key information beforehand with a link to a website or way to find more details. Your handouts will do you no good if they're in the garbage.

Booth Setup

- Music may NOT be played during the expo as it may interfere with the event. It will also be very loud in the venue. If you are promoting music at your booth, make sure that you bring your own music player, a good pair of noise cancelling headphones and pre-order electricity.
- Unless you are selling a great deal of product, do not place tables across the front of your booth – this says, "Do not enter!" Instead, push your table back to create a more welcoming space.
- Keep your inventory of merchandise behind the table instead of on the table, and put just samples on display. This will help prevent "missing inventory" and will help keep you from reorganizing your table every 5 minutes.
- Display information easily. If you are giving out information sheets, make sure that they are easily accessible.
- If your product or service demands a working demonstration, provide one! Either live or by video.
- Accessorize your booth! Use light boxes to illuminate graphics, podiums for storage and direction of traffic, and shelving panels for product display. Confirm that you have requested electricity for your booth when you registered if you are planning on using lighting at your booth.

- Make sure that your booth is not too cluttered. Your backdrop should have 3 main features: 1) An impact graphic, 2) Logo and company name, and 3) Secondary graphic. Number 1 gets their attention, number 2 tells them who you are, and number 3 tells them the main thing that you are promoting.

Advanced Preparations

- Pre-Market!! Inviting people to your booth before the event will ensure that you get good traffic at the event. If you are planning to do a special promotion at the event, or put some merchandise on sale, LET YOUR CLIENTS KNOW! You can promote during clinics, events, social media and/or on your web page. The more people that are seen at your booth, the more people will come to see your booth. This way you can use your existing clients to get more clients.
- Bring Bags! Attendants will not want to lug around products and promotional materials in their hands. A bag (reusable, plastic or otherwise) with your logo will help promote your presence at the event and draw people to your booth to get their own bags.
- Don't give out all of your expensive information packages at the event. Create inexpensive information flyers with Canadian prices listed that provide key information and offer to mail out additional information to interested coaches. Make sure that you get their contact info right and follow up by sending out the information that they requested no later than 1 week after the event. You may want to bring some complete packages to the event to give to especially interested coaches, but make sure that you get their contact information for future reference.
- Give out free samples! Samples and bags will help you draw traffic to your booth. The samples do not even have to be something concerning your company. Free is Free, even if it's deodorant, lip gloss, stickers, pens, or key chains...whatever it takes!
- Don't just provide information. Attendants are coming ready to shop so if you don't have anything to offer, expect lower traffic. You will have to approach attendees more than companies that are selling items. If your company does only team orders or, mail order only, give out samples, souvenirs, or bags to help create some traffic at your booth.
- Make sure that you stand out by offering unique items (music, jewelry, books, videos, hats, etc). Also, keep in mind that this event is for all ages, so bring a variety of sizes if you're selling clothing. Bring smaller items as well, key chains, socks, pendants, patches...attendants will want to get as much as they can at the event. If they only bring $30 and everything you sell is $20, that's $10 that you are missing out on.
- Bring a large inventory or at least have a plan if you run out of merchandise by lunch time on the first day. Make sure that you have access to more merchandise if you need it or are able to quickly set up orders.
- Make sure your reps know "how low they can go". If you still have a large inventory of a certain item by 12 noon on Sunday, then drop your prices to get rid of it quick.
- If you are doing cash sales only, try to keep most your prices in multiples of five ($5, $10, $15, $20, etc), if not, you will run out of change.
- There is an ATM machine onsite

Special Promotions

Brainstorm about special promotions that your company can offer. Coaches are looking for great deals and if you don't give them, someone else will! Don't be disappointed! Ideas:

- 1) Organize a prize draw for coaches in exchange for their contact information.
- 2) Provide special event prices for your merchandise / services and make sure to let everyone know that this is a special event price only
- 3) Provide coupons for your online order items and/or set up an easy but fun game to win coupons/small gifts.
- 4) Pre-Market your promotions by letting clients know that by coming to the expo, they could get this great deal.
- 5) Offer free samples, bags, or promotional items. If you are selling items, give out promotional items to people who spend at your booth (i.e. "If you buy $30 worth of products at our booth, we'll give you a free water bottle!", etc)

Get creative! Be different and stand out.

We want to make sure that you have a successful event. If you have any other questions or suggestions, please let us know!
